PROPER AND DECENT BURIAL

Judges Bookstaver and Lyon Lay Bown the The legal obligation of the owner of the premises on which a person dies to have the body interred in a becoming manner at his own expense was further declared by Justice Washope Lynn in the First District Court yesterdar, in giving judgment for Undertaker Berman H. Kipp against the East River Electric Light Company for $188.84, as the cost of burring Lineman James Tucker. The lineman was killed by electric shock in Novem ber, 1880, on a pole of the defendant while atteding to its wires in the elevated railroad sud, between Sixty-sixth and Sixty-seventh erets and Second and Third avenues.

Bwas conceded that the body was found on narm of the pole or partly on wires of the suppany, whence it was removed to a station besse at the direction of Superintendent letter. After being removed to Tucker's bouse it was taken for interment to Albany. Superintendent Dexter wrote meanwhile to flis company will pay expenses so far contracted-pay the bare cost of transferring body to care or boat by Albany, but will not pay for any other funeral ex-

An assistant of Mr. Kipp saw Mr. Dexter to ascertain definitely what was meant by the note, saying that the family had already been to the store and had given an order for a coffin and shroud. When asked about the coaches. it was averred that Dexter said: " Let it go on When the bill was t Dexter objected to the item of $100 for the min with engraved plate, $10 for the shroud, and $30 for coaches, writing:

fer young man who called upon me at my residence vasilestinctly tool that the casket should be the very theorest kind you had in the place. We never ordered by toaches, plumes, or net on the horses, or any en-grang.

Mr. Dexter testified that he believed he laited the cost to $75, and his counsel urged that the charges were all exorbitant. Several satertakers testified that it was not unusual to have similar funerals with such items of sipense for laborers who earned but from $12 to $15 awek. On a previous trial before Justies Steckler judgment was given for the salertaker for $107. The company appealed, and a reversal was had on a technicality, but the Beneral Term of the Court of Common Pers heid that the owner of the premises must $15 fer the interment of a body in such a case, he opinion, written by Justice Bookstaver, designed:

The opinion, written by Justice Bookstaver, declared:

This now, and throughout all ages has been, the sommon dictate of humanity to pay proper aspect to the bodies of the dead. This feeling is not peculiar to Christians, but has been the common feeling of humanity through all time and of peoples of every religion. The Patrische when sojourners in the land purchased burial blaces for their dead. The body of shook was carried up from Egypt with great pomp to be buried with his fathers. The burial of Patroclus, as recited in the lind, is but a single instance of the respect which the Greeks paid to their dead; and is squaled by the loving care of Friam, who went into the enemy's camp at night, guilted by aged to ransom the dead body of Hector from Achilles in order to perform for it the customary functal rires of the Trojans. No more tauching or tragic access is portrayed in all illerature than where Sophocles makes Technology functal rires of the Trojans. No more tauching or tragic access is portrayed in all illerature than where Sophocles makes Technology functal rires of the trojans, the two weekest of mortals, protect the dead body of him who had been in life the most powerful of warnors from insult and dishonor at the land of Agamennon, the mightlest of the Greeks.

Justice Lynn said that the defendant being shie under the common law to pay for the informant, the bill that would have to be paid wild be what would be the cost of "a proper and decrease tourial, fitted to the station in life of the decement of the training of the religious tody to which the decement burial according to the best and in the acceptance of the religious tody to which the decement before, has reference to the existing the among other races burials have been study and in sure of common experience that an interest of the religious tody to which the decement burial of even humble person, was a forman Catholic, and as such that Catholic and respect for their dead and accept burial suggestions in our common experience that actionite of e

LAUTERBACH NOT CAST DOWN.

He Says the General Term's Decision Mean The decision of the General Term denying the application of the East River Bridge Company for the right to build a cross-town elevated railroad from the junction of the two projected bridges to Grand and Desbrosses streets, North River, was a tremendous disap-pointment to the members of the Rapid Transit Commission. Chairman Steinway's vision of live capitalists with real money faded away as he read the General Term decision. He would not be interviewed about the de-

Edward Lauterbach of Headly, Lauterbach & Johnson, who formed the substance of Chairman Steinway's capitalistic vision, wasn't so much put out. He declared that the de-cision didn't amount to a row of pins so far as its effect on the proposition made to the Bapid Transit Commissioners was concerned. Mr. Lauterbach was leaving his office for the day when THE SUN reporter saw him.

"As I read the dectaion." he said. "it was adverse to us only because the General Term did not think it best to take out of the hands of the Rapid Transit Commission any part of the rapid transit problem; that is, it didn't want to interfere in any way with the legitimate business of the Commission. Understand, the rapid transit problem; that is, it didn't want to interfere in any way with the legitimate business of the Commission. Understand, the decision is in no sense fatal to our proposed cross-town road. It will merely delay the carrying out of our plans. There are three things left for us to do. We can go ahead and get the consents of the property owners along the line of the proposed road."

"Have they not already been refused?"

"It is true that when we endeavored to get the consents before we appealed to the General Term the owners did not seem disposed to agree. They may have changed their minds since then. At all events, we can try them again. Our second plan is to apply to the Hapld Transit Commission and have them incorporate our cross-town road in the system that has been laid out by Commissioner Bushs. Our third move might be another appeal to the General Term. Notwithstanding the present decision, I think a second appeal would without doubt be successful. The persons whom I represent will meet probably on Monday to decide what is to be done. I wish to emphasize the fact especially that this decision merely delays our plans a little. It will not take us out of the market as bidders for the roads proposed by Mr. Hushs. When the franchiese for those roads are put up at auction we will be prepared to stand by the agreement I made with the Board at its last meeting.

The prospect is not as good as Mr. Lauteriach pictures it, in the opinion of some others who are deeply interested in the rapid transit problem. They say, first, that the General Term would not stuitfy itself by going back on its own decision, and, second, that if Mr. Lauterbach's capitalists should succeed in getting the flapid Transit Commission to incorporate the cross-town plan in the Bushe plan, the consent of the property owners, or, in lieu of that, the consent of the General Term, would still be necessary, and it would be just as hard for the Rapid Transit Commission to obtain either as it would be for the capitalists. In any event, a cross

A Wonderful Clock, Sanarous, Jan. 13 .- C. E. Shearer of Schuylerville hos just completed a clock that exhibits great ingenuity on his part. He has been at work upon it for nearly two years. The case, made of black walnut and mahogany, repremade of black walput and mahogany, represents an arsenal. It is three feet six inches high, has several balconies and plantas and a tower in which is a bell. On either side of the entrance door is a miniature brass cannon mounted on trucks. The works are automatically musical, playing a different tune every half hour. Each time the music plays a trumpeter on borseback rides out of the lower front door and remains until it ceases. Then he restited and the clock is of shony and the figures and hands of ivory.

MR. TIEDEN'S REAL ESTATE.

A Priendly Suit for its Partition-The Belay In Forming the Tilden Library. A friendly suit has been begun for the partition of the real estate left by Samuel J. Tilden. This consists of Grerstone. Mr. Tilden's country place in Yonkers, his Gramercy Park house, and some property on Long Island. The value of the whole is roughly estimated at $1,000,000 The Tilden Trust takes the initiative in the suit. It owns half of the property at issue, six descendants of Mr. Tilden's brother Henry owning the other half. Mrs. Hazard, grand daughter of Mr. Tilden's sister, has nothing owning the other half. Mrs. Hazard, grand daughter of Mr. Tilden's sister, has nothing to do with the suit, as she aurrendered all her interest in the estate of the Tilden Trust for $1.000,000. The natural result of the suit will be the putting of Greystone and the Gramerer Park house on the market. Greystone consists of about one hundred acres.

Mr. Tilden added to the area of the original property and increased its value by the erection of greenhouses, besides improving it in other ways. There are already several property includes four lots, two on Twentieth street and two on Nineteenth street. Mr. Tilden's bouse occupies the whole of the Twentieth attreet lots, and those on Nineteenth street form the yard.

A suit is now pending for a formal accounting by the executors of the Tilden estate, and also for instruction as to the construction of the provisions in the will relating to the libraries at Yonkers and New Lebanon for which Mr. Tilden left bequests. The executors have made an accounting which has been verified by the heirs, and the pending suit is merely to make it authoritative.

The property controlled by the Tilden Trust, out of which a library will ultimately be formed, although on a much smaller scale than contemplated by Mr. Tilden, is estimated at about $2.000,000. This estimate includes the trust's share in the real estate, the partition of which is desired. The formation of the library has been indefinitely retarded by the failure of the competing architects to furnish plans for the new City Hail, for the Tilden Library building is to be the present City Hail transferred to the site of the reservoir at Bryant Park. This transfer, of course, will not be made until the city is ready to put up a new City Hail.

K. OF L. AND FEDERATION OF LABOR. A Pinn of Amalgamation to Be Considered Early Next Month.

It has become known that the American Federation of Labor and the Knights of Labor are engaged in an effort to amalgamate, and that a meeting of three delegates from each body will be held in Philadelphia in the first week of February to arrange a plan. The railroad brotherhoods also have been asked to come in, and they will probably send delegates to the conference.

The plan, it is said, embraces the formation of a quasi-political body through the mixed assemblies of the Knights, or by some other plan which will not bring the trades unions into politics as trades unions. Overtures were first made by the Knights of Labor, as the following letter from their General Master Workman and General Secreta. v shows:

This letter reached Mr. Gompers during the convention of the American Federation of Labor in Chicago. Business was suspended that action might be taken on it. There was some opposition, but at length by a unanimous vote the offer was accepted. Mr. Gompers was among these who advocated harmony. Pamuel Gompers. P. J. Moduirs. and Frank P. Foster were appointed delegates to the conference and the Executive Council of the Federation was directed to instruct them. A meeting of the council was he/d in this city last week and Gompers wrots to the Knights suggesting that the meeting be held in Philadelphia in the first week of February.

Correspondence on the same lines has passed between the knights of Labor and the railroad brotherhoods.

Knights who were seen vesterday were not prepared to talk on the political side to the amaigamation, but the Federation men mean to demand certain conditions, and will act only on a plan which they will insist must be agreed to. They will insist that trade meters shall be tabooed in the mixed assemblies, and that politics shall be tabooed in the trade assemblies. They hold that the mixed assemblies, as they are now are wrong in their construction from a trade union point of view. The mixed assemblies are supposed to be educational, and, if the amaigamation goes into effect, can be made the contended will meet the objection which many trade unions have to faking independent political action.

GOTHAM'S RETICENT VISITORS.

A Reporter's Ill Success in Trying to Interview the Adirondack Guides.

The Adirondack guides who are in this city as witnesses in the Austin case are a queer lot of mortals. They are staying at the Ashland House, at Fourth avenue and Twenty-fourth street, and they may be seen there at any time all twenty of them, sitting in the lobby, staring at every one who comes in. They wear country clothes and look healthy. careless, breezy, and countrifled. A reporter tried to find out how they had been amusing themselves at night in the city. Approaching a tall, lank guide, whose stooped shoulders and long, drooping moustache gave him the appearance of the typical mountain guide, the reporter asked: Are you enjoying yourselves in New York?"

Dunno," was the laconic answer. Junno, was the laconic answer.
In an instant all the other guides gathered around looking deeply interested.
I would like to write a story about how you gentlemen are enjoying yourselves in this They looked at one another, but said noth-

They looked at one another, but said nothing.

"Yil have t' see Col. James, our lawyer," one of them said. "We don't care t' talk about this 'ere case."

"Yil have t' ask Col. James. We ain't 'lowed to speak." to speak."
Then ther all sat down and chewed tooth-Are they always like that?" was asked of the clerk.

Yes, pretty much. They're awfully closemouthed, and won't talk to strangers. They sit around here most of the time doing nothing. Sometimes they go cut, but they're always back early.

As the reporter went out one of the guides said, with a cunning look in his eye:

A DEPRAYED CABLE PULLEY.

After Working All Hight for a While, I Turas Ugly and Blocks Broadway. There were two accidents yesterday morning to the Broadway cable, resulting from some fault in the position of a wheel in the slot of the up-town track just north of Houston street. The wheel ran too close to the side of the slot and prevented the free passage of the grips. About 10% o'clock ear 57 started up town across the space between the slow and fast cables at Houston street. Gripman Pat rick Fendlass was at the wheel. The car had passed Houston street but a few feet when there was a heavy jar which threw passengers against one another. The car bumped stong against one another. The car bumped siong a short distance and came to a stop. Investigation was made, and the grip rods were found to be hadly damaged. Attempts to straighten them with crowns as were ussless, and car 145 was run in behind to try to push the disabled car to the up-town cable, but the grip of No. 57 was to much injured to grasp the cable. When Chief Inspector Parker arrived he ordered the car to be lacked off the grip, which was taken out of the slot, and No. 57 was towed up town. The accident caused a delay of half an hour, and the string of idle cars stretched down Broadway almost to Bowling tireen.

An hour later car 38 struck the same pulley, and a delay of fifteen minutes resulted. Hundreds of care ind passed safely ever the ruiley before No. 57 atruck it. The pulley, which was a new one, and had been put in the slot in the morning, will be replaced by another.
